On Water Expo Set For June Houseboat show heads to Cumberland

The 2012 National Houseboat Expo will be held at the State Dock Marina on Lake Cumberland June 8, 9 and 10. The Kentucky marina is the ideal host where attendees get a chance to truly experience the houseboating lifestyle like no other boat show can. Traditionally the Houseboat Expo is held each year in February or March in Louisville, Ky., with the second show, the on water version, being held in late August. But for the first time ever, the two shows will come together to feature one great June Expo. For three days, starting Friday, June 8, attendees will once again be able to look at the latest houseboats in the industry, plus check out some used versions of near-new houseboats as well. And that's not including the countless vendors and exhibitors that will also be on hand to cover your houseboating needs with products and services. Throw in informative seminars and an on-dock poker run and you have a recipe for a fun weekend.

"We're excited to create this one-of-a-kind show that will combine the best parts of the Louisville expo and our late summer show," says Expo producer Greg Larsen. "We feel this June show will give us the best of both shows."

With the help of Apex Marine, a complete pontoon boat package that includes a trailer and engine will once again be awarded, plus other great prizes will be given out during the three-day event.
